

IMPACT OF INCREASING URBANIZATION ON STREAM CORRIDOR ECOLOGY

(WITHOUT BEST MANAGEMENT PRACTICES)

This figure demonstrates the impact of increasing impervious area on species diversity. Although it is based on research findings for lowland streams in the Puget Sound region of Washington State, the figure is intended for conceptual purposes only.

Figure 1-8